

YWCA of Duluth Annual Membership Campaign

With our collective power we are changing the face of the future.

The face of the future includes children who respect differences and diversity. At the YWCA children learn how to celebrate diversity through the use of an anti-bias curriculum. The accredited educational program also readies the children for school and life long learning. Children are the future of our community.

The face of the present and the future includes young women who are confident and strong. The YWCA's Girl Power! program works with young girls on self-esteem, body image, career planning, money management, and academic enrichment including math, science and computer literacy. They are our future

Young mothers become success stories through the work of the YWCA's Spirit Valley Young Mother's program. Through the supportive housing program they learn self-sufficiency and life skills that move them from crisis to stability. The face of the present and the future includes these parents and their children. They are our future workforce and leaders.

The present includes the wisdom of our elders. The YWCA's Breast Cancer Awareness program helps make this possible by saving lives. In addition, the public policy and advocacy work of the YWCA on social security and other economic issues ensures that women will not spend their later years living in poverty.
