EON: Dragoneye Reborn
By Alison Goodman

SYNOPSIS:

As a cripple, twelve-year-old Eon knows he has little chance at being chosen by the Rat Dragon during the upcoming ceremony yet if he is not; it will bring ruin to his master and most certainly send him to servitude in the salt mines. After suffering an ambush on the ceremonial sands, Eon watched helplessly as the Rat Dragon chose a different candidate. Yet that was not the end, after missing for 500 years, the Mirror Dragon appeared before the gathered assembly and chose Eon as it's Dragoneye.

The unprecedented reappearance of the Mirror Dragon immediately thrusts Eon into a dangerous life of political intrigue, power plays and tenuous alliances. Now is not the time for Eon to reveal his dangerous secret, for he is no boy but instead, an intelligent sixteen-year-old girl. Girls are not thought capable of serving as a Dragoneye; such a deception would be rewarded with a grizzly public death so Eon has little choice but to continue the charade. Yet that charade comes with a steep price as the Mirror Dragon has not given Eon its name, thus withheld the ability to call upon its power when needed.

Ido, a power hungry Dragoneye working with High Lord Sethon seek to overthrow the current Emperor. As Eon is swept into imperial politics, she must choose sides while keeping her true identity hidden and uncover the key to the Mirror Dragon's power before that power is taken away from her.

Written for young adults, this complex, richly envisioned tale will appeal to fantasy lovers of all ages. Incorporating elements of the hero's quest with closely guarded secrets, ancient texts, mythical beasts and compellingly realistic political machinations, Goodman has created a gem. The action carries readers on a wild ride as Eon attempts to balance doing what is right with keeping herself alive against mounting odds. A richly developed historical and cultural background combined with turbulent current affairs makes this is more than a coming of age tale, this is fantasy writing at its best.

Girls Empowered Through Reading Engagement and Leadership

December 25, 2009

Dear Prospective Y' Girl,

Since we know that you love to read, YWCA Indianapolis has created a program just for you—Y' Girls G.E.T-R.E.A.L – Girls Empowered Through Reading Engagement And Leadership. This program celebrates girls like you who love to read, meet new friends, explore new ideas and make a difference in their community. Y' Girls GET REAL will meet monthly and also include opportunities to participate in special events, activities and trips.

Please join us on January 21, 2010 at 6:00p.m. for our first Y'Girls G.E.T. R.E.A.L meeting. The event will be held at 1500 North Delaware Street in the Indiana Humanities Council Building. Registration for G.E.T. R.E.A.L will be available and we will have a discussion on the book discussed in the attached flyer. The cost is $20 for all students between the ages of 14-18 for the year. The fees will cover registration and other materials. Please bring your parent/guardian with you to sign your application.

At the initial meeting, you can expect to participate in an action packed preview of the program, discussion of the first book and an opportunity to meet girls from all over Indianapolis. We look forward to meeting you there! You can also bring a friend!

Please RSVP by sending an email to ywcaindy@sbcglobal.net or calling (317) 250-8593. You can also find more information on our exclusive facebook group page, "G.E.T. R.E.A.L. Program". Registration is limited to the first 45 girls who RSVP so don't wait!

Sincerely,

Anna
