WHAT THE FAMILY VIOLENCE PREVENTION AND SERVICES ACT (FVPSA) DOES

- Provides funding for shelter and supportive services for victims of family, domestic, and dating violence, and for individuals at risk of victimization.
- Provides funding for the National Domestic Violence Hotline, a 24-hour, national, toll-free hotline that provides information, assistance, and referrals to adult and youth victims of family, domestic, and dating violence, and to persons affected by this violence.
- Supports state domestic violence coalitions to establish, operate, and maintain community violence prevention and education programs.

- Enables domestic violence coalitions and national and specialized resource centers to provide specialized technical assistance to enable local domestic violence programs to address emerging issues, such as trauma-informed care and culturally-specific domestic violence services.
- Supports a children’s program to allow twelve communities that range from Texas to Alaska and Maine to California to receive targeted training and funding to meet the needs of children exposed to domestic violence.

PLEASE SUPPORT REAUTHORIZATION OF THE FAMILY VIOLENCE PREVENTION AND SERVICES ACT

The Family Violence Prevention and Services Act has been instrumental in preventing and responding to gender-based violence. Since its initial authorization in 1984 and subsequent reauthorizations, FVPSA has:

- Created the first and only federal funding stream dedicated to supporting community-based domestic violence programs and shelters, thereby directly addressing the childcare, housing, community support, transportation, and other barriers that survivors of gender-based violence face in accessing safety and resources.
- Significantly improved domestic violence prevention efforts and increased public awareness about the prevalence of domestic violence, dating violence, and family violence.
- Ensured that survivors of gender-based violence from underserved communities have gained access to the same life-saving and life-changing assistance and resources as other survivors.
- Developed trauma-informed best practices for children and youth exposed to domestic violence.

Please support survivors of gender-based violence by supporting the reauthorization of the Family Violence Prevention and Services Act.
